Remède SPA LOUNGE

Remède Spa at The St. Regis Singapore has a dynamic and interactive relationship with the element of water. It distinguishes itself from a traditional tropical Asian spa design. The interior design of the spa creates an environment to support the transformative journey through the various stages of water formation as well as the Hammam experience that is reinterpreted here in an innovative and contemporary manner.

The reception is clean, crisp and cool with shades of icy blue and silver evoking the first stage of water in its glacial and ice forms. The full leaded crystal chandelier is custom made and reflects the formation of stalactites hanging from above. The cut of the crystal captures the light inside, giving an exceptional luminance and brilliance that resembles the northern light penetrating the ice and reflects its purity and translucence.

Unique features such as Cedarwood Finnish Saunas, Eucalyptus Scented Steam Chambers and Ice Fountains, amongst others, have been developed to support the hot and cold therapies that have proven health benefits. The Ice Fountain, the only one of its kind in Singapore, for instance, comes from the millennia-old European bathing tradition of using snow to cleanse the body. Smooth ice chips are dispensed from the ice fountain outside the steam chambers and the Finnish sauna to refresh and cool the skin after the steam process. This process enables guests to experience the full cycle of hot and cold therapy, which benefits the immune and circulatory systems by stimulating the metabolism and flushing out toxins.
